‘What is the Best Loudspeaker that you’ve owned?’

The Sound Lab A-1 was easily the best, AND most musical speaker I've owned. They are everything that the 'glowing reviews' claim them to be. The latest blurb on Sound Labs' site says that oftentimes, they're called the 'storm speaker' as they can reproduce everything from the sound of raindrops to thunder. I can unhesitatingly agree with this.

But, what can't be overlooked, is their nuance within the harmonic structure of music. That lilting quality of a female voice, the air around the mouthpiece of an alto sax player like Desmond and his #4 1/2 reed that's been clipped. (Making it a virtual popsicle stick in thickness, OMG how'd he do that?)

The snap of a snare with the springs loosened, the impact of the bass drum, tympani, triangle--Lucia Micarelli's full bodied violin in it's lower register. The magic that is music resides within these speakers. My personal favorite that I've ever owned...
